

The crystal, clear blue lake looks like a patch of blue in the sun. The rusty grey shed is like an Olympic medal. Whoosh! Whoosh! A green, bushy tree sways from side to side like a wobbly jelly in the wind. White birds are like tiny clouds in the great blue sky. A glamorous blue and orange bird is taking off for flight. Flutter...flutter...flutter he flies charmingly above the mountains. Far, Far away, I see a shiny, golden cat catching butterflies. The bumpy green mountains look like colourful green cushions all placed in a row. Green grass is prickling the earth like a carpet. Leaves lay on the grass waiting for the breeze to come and pick them them up.

Outside my window, I see an old shed beside the trees. The ginger brown cat is pouncing to get a butterfly to gobble up. Close by I see a crystal, clear lake waving from side to side. The white birds are flapping their wings into the blue sky. The blue and black bird with orange feet, lonely, looking for a friend. The beautiful white flowers dancing with the grass.

Far, far away, the trees stand tall like an army of soldiers. The bright green grass is wrestling with the wind. The sky is as blue as the sea. The plants are growing to get bigger and bigger and touch the sky.

Outside my window, I see a lovely brown gold cat running to catch a butterfly. A bird is getting ready to fly. The five white birds don't want to play with the blue and orange bird. Leaves are dancing like people. And the clouds look like candy floss in the sky. The five birds are flying up to the sky.

The Earth looks like a big green ball. The sky looks like a blue sea. Five white birds ready to fly to New Zealand. The trees are as tall as elephants. The mountain is as tall as the sun. This is an amazing place to see.

Outside in the garden, I see a shed as grey as an elephant. I see a cat that wants to catch the beautiful birds. I see leaves dancing in the wind. I see a river that is blue as the sky. The mountains are green like green trolls. Far far away, tall trees are dancing on the ground. Green grass is green like a green goblin. I can see a bird which wants to fly up to the sun. Tall big trees as tall like soldiers. The white clouds are like marshmallows in the sky. I see a coconut, round and brown as the bark of a tree. I see grass as green as an angry ogre. I love this place, don't you?
